General Information About the AEPA and Test Preparation
INTRODUCTION

This section includes a list of the test objectives, practice questions, and an answer key for the selected-response questions.

Test objectives. As noted earlier, the test objectives are broad, conceptual statements that reflect the knowledge, skills, and understanding an entry-level educator needs to practice effectively in Arizona schools. The list of test objectives for each test field is the only source of information about what a specific test will cover and therefore should be studied carefully.

Practice questions. The practice selected-response questions and practice performance assignments included in this section are designed to give you an introduction to the nature of the questions included in the AEPA tests. The practice questions represent the various types of questions you may expect to see on an actual test; however, they are not designed to provide diagnostic information to help you identify specific areas of individual strengths and weaknesses or to predict your performance on the test as a whole.

When you answer the practice questions, you may wish to use the sample answer sheet and sample Written Response Booklet provided in Part 1 to acquaint yourself with these materials. Use the answer key located after the practice questions to check your answers. Sample responses are provided immediately following each written performance assignment. The sample responses in this guide are for illustrative purposes only. Your written response should be your original work, written in your own words, and not copied or paraphrased from some other work.

To help you identify how the test objectives are measured, the objective statement to which the question corresponds is listed in the answer key. When you are finished with the practice questions, you may wish to go back and review the entire list of test objectives and descriptive statements for your test field.
TEST OBJECTIVES

Field 33: Constitutions of the United States and Arizona

SUBAREAS:

1. U.S. Constitution
2. Arizona Constitution

U.S. CONSTITUTION

0001 Understand major constitutional principles as defined in the preamble and in the articles of the U.S. Constitution.

For example: the structure, functions, and powers of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches of government; relationships among the three branches; major steps in the legislative process; major principles and procedures of the election process; terms and qualifications of U.S. senators, representatives, and the president; the relationship between the states and the federal government; the “supremacy clause” of the Constitution; and procedures for amending the Constitution.

0002 Understand the Bill of Rights and other amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

For example: the five civil liberties of the First Amendment; historical and political context of the Bill of Rights; ways in which the Bill of Rights limits the power of government; due process protections; amendments that have expanded popular participation in government, including that of historically excluded groups; civil rights issues and election procedures; amendments related to state lawsuits, taxation, and governmental organization.

0003 Understand ways in which the U.S. Constitution has been defined through interpretation.

For example: landmark Supreme Court decisions regarding the Bill of Rights and civil rights issues, governmental powers, and the rights of teachers and students.

ARIZONA CONSTITUTION

0004 Understand the principles of the Arizona Declaration of Rights and direct democracy.

For example: the historical and political context of the Arizona Declaration of Rights; basic civil liberties and due process protections; limitations on the powers of state government; provisions related to suffrage and direct democracy (initiative, referendum, recall); the role of the Progressive movement in the development of the Arizona Constitution; and the procedures for amending the Arizona Constitution.
0005 Understand the structure, functions, powers, and limitations of the three branches of Arizona government.

For example: the structure, functions, and powers of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches of state government; terms and qualifications for state legislators, members of executive departments, and judges; major steps in the legislative process; relationships among the three branches; the jurisdiction of Arizona courts; procedures for electing, removing, and replacing members of government; and the relationship between sovereign tribal governments and the state government.

0006 Understand other provisions of the Arizona Constitution.

For example: provisions regarding interrelationships of state and local (municipal, county, special districts) governments; provisions regarding education, including the structure of the Arizona public school system and the education of all pupils, including exceptional students; provisions regarding revenues and taxation; and various other provisions of the Arizona Constitution (e.g., regarding corporations, labor, militia, English language).

D. to extend the protections contained in the Bill of Rights to all Americans

9. Use the excerpt below from the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Schenck v. United States (1919) to answer the question that follows.

The most stringent protection of free speech would not protect a man in falsely shouting fire in a theatre and causing a panic. . . . The question in every case is whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent. It is a question of proximity and degree.

Which of the following statements is the best summary of the Court's decision in this case?

A. The legality of an act of free speech depends upon the intent of the speaker.
B. Congress has the right to define whether an act of free speech is either harmful or beneficial.
C. The legality of an act of free speech is determined by the extent to which the statement is correct.
D. An act of free speech is punishable by law only when it jeopardizes the well-being of others.
10. In Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka (1954), the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed segregation in public schools. The Court's decision in the case most influenced the evolving interpretation of which of the following constitutional provisions?

B. the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment
C. the reserved powers clause of the Tenth Amendment
D. the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment

11. In Ableman v. Booth (1859), the U.S. Supreme Court denied state courts the right to issue rulings that conflicted with the decisions of federal courts. The Court's decision in the case most influenced the evolving interpretation of which of the following constitutional principles?

A. popular sovereignty
B. federalism
C. separation of powers
D. rule of law

12. Use the excerpt below from the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Pickering v. Board of Education (1968) to answer the question that follows.

"Teachers are, as a class, the members of a community most likely to have informed and definite opinions as to how funds allocated to the operation of the schools should be spent. . . ."

"In a case such as this, absent proof of false statements knowingly or recklessly made by him, a teacher's exercise of his right to speak on issues of public importance may not furnish the basis for his dismissal from public employment."

Based on the excerpt above, which of the following conclusions can be drawn about the Court's opinion in this case?

A. Teachers involved in disputes about school operations may never be dismissed by school boards.
B. When making statements about school operations, teachers must provide irrefutable evidence for all assertions.
C. School boards have the right to dismiss teachers who question the motives of board members.
D. The Constitution does not protect teachers who purposely make misleading statements about public issues.
13. Use the excerpt below from the Arizona Constitution to answer the question that follows.

No standing army shall be kept up by this state in time of peace, and no soldier shall in time of peace be quartered in any house without the consent of its owner, nor in time of war except in the manner prescribed by law.
